

Injunction douses fires at Belson

By Patrick Foley
Staff writer

A preliminary injunction was signed Friday prohibiting Belson Recycling Co. from open burning and polluting the air.

Madison County Third Circuit Court Associate Judge Michael Meehan signed the court order after Attorney General Neil Hargan's Granite City office asked for an immediate injunction.

The office filed a complaint for injunctive relief in April, Pat Morris, an assistant attorney general, said Friday. The complaint alleged open burning and air pollution in violation of the Environmental Protection Act.

A motion for an immediate injunction was asked for Friday, Morris said, because of nearby construction workers being physically affected by fumes allegedly produced by recent fires at the company's railcar recycling facility at the south end of Washington Avenue near Race Street in Venice.

Repeated attempts were made Friday and Saturday to contact Belson Recycling, but no one was available to comment on the court injunction.

Through July 27, there had been 63 complaints signed against the firm and 35 fire calls were made by the Venice Volunteer Fire Department since September 1984. There were also at least four arrests of supervisory personnel at the facility, including charges of creating a city nuisance and allowing open burning.

Biggs resigns from village board

By Valerie Evenden

PONTON BEACH — A letter of resignation from Trustee Keith E. Biggs was accepted by the Board of Trustees at its July 28 meeting.

No specific explanation for his resignation was offered by Biggs, who stated in the letter it was necessary for "reasons of my own." It was effective immediately.

The resignation apparently came as a surprise to the village officials, although Biggs has not attended the last three board meetings.

"The letter was hand delivered to me," said Village Clerk Mary Warren. A family member brought it to her at the Village Hall, she said.

"We haven't seen them (the family) since," the clerk said.

A 12-year member of the board, Biggs was unopposed in the April 1987 election when seeking his fourth four-year term as trustee. He could not be reached for comment.

"We are checking into the legalities of this (vacancy)," Warren said last week.

The legal opinion being sought concerns whether an appointment can be made for the remainder of unexpired term, which does not end until April 1991, or only until the board's next election in April 1989.

Biggs was elected in April along with Village President Glen Wilson, Trustees Loren

Madison and Louis Whitsell and Clerk Warren. All the incumbents were unopposed for their four-year posts and were associated with the Growth and Development Party.

Seats held by Trustees Bob Abel, Don Rea and Bob Vincent are up for election in April 1989.

In other action, the board approved two business licenses. Janet Thornton sought to establish and operate Jan's Jeans at 4145 Ponton Road and Robert Schuck of Mitchell requested a license to work as a general contractor within the village limits.

Also approved was an ordinance authorizing the purchase from Madison County of one

Costello collects $264,000, leaves Fields, others behind

By David Rocks
P-HJ Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — More than one year before the 1988 general election and seven months before the primaries, St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello has amassed a campaign war chest far eclipsing his competitors' in the race to succeed Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.

Costello, a Democrat, is the only officially announced candidate for the seat, although other politicians soon are expected to jump into the fray.

Costello has collected $264,894, according to Federal Election Commission records which include contributions made through June 30.

Other Democrats expected to seek the seat are Mike Mansfield, Price's top aide, Madison County Auditor Pete Fields and Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus.

The three have raised less than $5,000 each and thus were not required to file reports with the FEC. All three have said they will announce their candidacy in September.

Republican Robert Gaffner, who ran against Price in the 21st District in 1982, 1984 and 1986, said in a telephone interview that he has raised less than $5,000, but that he also is interested in running and will make a formal announcement in September.

Costello's fund includes more than $155,000 that was transferred from the campaign committee for his aborted 1984 House race. He withdrew from that race after Price decided to run again.

Most of the rest of the money reported by Costello came from a $1,000-a-plate fund raiser held in June.

Individuals are allowed to contribute no more than $1,000 to a candidate per election, so those attending Costello's fund event will not be able to donate any more until the general election.

"I have been planning on this race for at least three years," Costello said. "That's why I have a substantial amount of money at this time."

Costello's financial support has come primarily from St. Clair County. Of the $104,700 in individual contributions reported to the FEC, at least $79,000 was received from individual county residents.

Costello also received money from four political action committees (PACs): $1,000 each from BOBANCAPAC — Boatmen's National Bank in St. Louis, Center PAC — Center Bank in St. Louis, and Peabody PAC — owners of the Peabody Coal Co., the nation's largest coal producer; and $2,600 from SVGS PAC — the Sverdrup Corp., a St. Louis architectural and real estate firm.

Although Price has said he will retire, he also filed a report with the FEC stating he had about $2,500 in his campaign fund as of June 30.

In the neighboring 22nd congressional district, incumbent Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., has about $7,500. No other candidates in that race filed statements with the FEC.

In the state's 20th district, Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., has a campaign fund of $79,683, of which $33,302 was raised this year.

Among Durbin contributors are several PACs including the Airline Pilots Association PAC, which gave him $2,500, and the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association PAC, which donated $1,550. No other candidates filed in the 20th District.

Union contracts renewed

Nestle Foods Corp. has announced the settlement of three-year labor agreements with International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers District 9 and International Union of Operating Engineers Local 2.

These agreements cover all plant and office employees and powerhouse employees at the Granite City factory, 2101 Adams St.

The Nestle Foods plant in Granite City employs nearly 300 people and is the world's only producer of Nestle 100% Instant Tea, Nestle Ice Teasers and certain other instant drinks.

The plant was founded in 1943 to produce instant coffee for government during World War

II.

In 1966, the plant was converted to an instant tea facility and in recent years it has added the new Ice Teasers line.

The facility has been undergoing extensive renovations recently, highlighted by groundbreaking for new employee facilities and offices this May.

Plant Manager Larry Merla said, "Acceptance of our new three-year labor agreements is just another indication of our commitment to the future."

"We feel we have the advantage in competing for new products due to the quality of our labor force, and their commitment to our products."

At this year's groundbreaking, participants included Nestle

Foods Corp. President Alan McDonald. Also taking part were officials of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Von Dee Cruse, Meria and City Economic Development Director Alan Ortals.

The $1 million expansion project is to be completed by July 1988. It was designed by Kenneth Balk & Associates Inc.

The work includes renovation of the Nestle office building and construction of a 16,000-square-foot addition.

The expansion of the local plant's product line in the mid-1980s also required major capital expenditures, including installation of additional equipment.

Pull-out talk sparks county to negotiate city CDBG share

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city's threat to withdraw from Madison County's Community Development program has the county reviewing the share of block grant money that goes to the city.

County Community Development officials Joe Parente and Cheryl Jouett promised several aldermen and Mayor Von Dee Cruse that the county will consider giving Granite City a larger share of Community Development Block Grant money. If the city leaves the county program, the county will offer proposals to administer a program the city would have to start.

The aldermen and Cruse are considering pulling out of the program and getting Community Development money directly from the federal government because the move would apparently give the city more money and direct control over how its spent.

The county would have less money to distribute to other communities if Granite City pulled out.

Aldermen have expressed concern that the city is not getting its fair share of CDBG money.

Cruse and the aldermen were told by Housing and Urban Development officials from Chicago that the city could set up its own community development office by the end of 1988 if the city followed guidelines.

Those guidelines include the city producing a housing needs study and assistance plan and a general description of for what the CDBG money will be used.

A HUD official, Alice Hamilton, said the money could be used for a many public improvements, housing rehabilitation and paying the program's administrative costs.

The city would have received about $690,000 this year if it received money directly from the government, Hamilton said.

Parente said the county earmarked $182,000 for Granite City this year and including county-wide CDBG programs, the city has so far received a total of $317,000. The total includes Granite City residents have used in the county's housing rehabilitation and economic development program.

Parente said more money is available to Granite City residents who wish to apply for the programs.

Under HUD rules, a city can set up its own "entitlement" program or participate in a county program but cannot do both. In Madison County, CDBG funds are allocated and administered by the county.

Fourth Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak, an advocate of pulling out of the county's program, said the problem with the county is not just money.

"The chicken is whose deciding where the money is spent. Right now, Nelson Hagnauer is deciding how the money is being spent," Perjak said.

Hagnauer is Madison County Board chairman and chairman of the county's Grants Committee, which reviews CDBG funding applications.

Perjak said it was interesting that the county is reconsidering Granite City's portion after city officials expressed interest in pulling out.

"It's obvious they want to work with us now," Perjak said.

At a meeting Thursday with Cruse, Perjak, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney and city Economic Director Alan Ortals, Parente said the county's CDBG funds are distributed fairly.

"When you're trying to deal with 50 communities and towns, it's difficult. We've tried to administer these programs fairly ... and not make some kind of political deal out of it," Parente said.

He said the county would also take up the issue of whether Granite City residents are adequately informed of county CDBG programs.

Joe Parente

Cruse said he wants to weigh the "pluses and minuses" of pulling out of the county's program and has not decided if the city should.

Cruse and talks with HUD officials and to Cicero and Pekin, mostly white communities that have recently set up their own CDBG programs. Cruse said he is satisfied that Granite City's lack of a minority population would not hinder getting HUD funds. He also said the two communities seemed satisfied with their programs.

Hamilton said that, though the city must follow HUD's anti-discrimination rules, the city would qualify for CDBG funds because the city has many low-income residents.

Perjak said she was willing to negotiate with the county, but still thinks the city could more efficiently administer its own program.

Parente and Jouett suggested that the county could administer Granite City's program for a fee. The fee could not exceed 20 percent of what the city gets, according to HUD rules. Jouett said the county's fee would be between 15 and 20 percent and would be approximately $150,000 a year, depending on changes in the CDBG grant formula.

The option of pulling out and having the county administer the program would exclude the city from taking part in countywide CDBG programs, such as low-interest loans to businesses and housing rehabilitation grants.

Parente said the city would be required to provide the same types of programs the county now provides to Granite City residents.

Perjak said she would be administering the county administering a city CDBG program if the city pulled out.

"I find it very difficult to pay them $140,000-plus to do the paperwork. Everyone I've talked to has said the paperwork would not be that difficult," she said.

Perjak said HUD officials told her the program would take about three people to administer. She said the hiring of three people would be much less than $150,000.

Parente said that, if Granite City and Alton pulled out, a settlement with the city and county would not be possible because the county's CDBG program would close its doors.

Under HUD rules, a county must maintain a participating population of at least 200,000 to get CDBG funds. With Alton and Granite City gone, the participating population would fall below 200,000.

Partney said that though he did not want to hurt other county communities, the issue was a matter of "dollars and cents."

Parente said part of the problem with the city's portion of the CDBG grants is that city residents are not aware of money that is available.

The city will have until Sept. 1, when the three-year agreement between the city and the county ends, to decide whether to stay in the county program. Parente said if the city decides to pull out, the city would receive the rest of its portion of the county-administered CDBG money next year, he said.

Local students visit Washington, Philadelphia

GRANITE CITY — Twenty-seven students from Coolidge and Grisby junior high schools traveled this summer to Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia.

In Washington, the group visited the Smithsonian Institution's air and space, natural history and American history museums, the U.S. Capitol, the White House, the Supreme Court, the FBI, Ford's Theater (where President Abraham Lincoln was shot), the Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson memorials, the Vietnam Memorial, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Arlington National Cemetery, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the gravesite of President John F. Kennedy and the National Archives, where students viewed the Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

While in Washington, the students met with Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville, and participated in a special wreath laying ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery.

In Philadelphia, the group viewed various exhibits and activities celebrating the bicentennial of the Constitution. The tour also included a visit to Independence Hall, the Liberty Bell and the U.S. Mint.

Coolidge and Grisby students who participated in the trip were:

Sechrest, Chris Steiner, Becky Stephens, Chris Stroder, Tara Swalley, Debbie Thompson, Chad Toeniskoetter, Tobie Barnhough, Doug Turner, Clint Weldon and David Wilson.

Mary Kay Steiner, a parent, also participated in the tour.

The group was accompanied by Tom Turner, a teacher at Grisby, and Shirley Stoll, a Coolidge teacher and president of the Granite City Federation of Teachers.

Solidarity's merger with Democratic party delayed

Gov. James R. Thompson, citing "important" constitutional questions, vetoed legislation Aug. 8 that would have allowed the Solidarity Party to merge with the Democratic Party.

However, the governor said if his doubts about the constitutionality of the measure can be adequately addressed before a bill containing an identical provision requires action later this summer, he will consider a different course of action.

Sen. Vince DeMuzio, Illinois Democratic chairman, said approval is vital for his party as it prepares for 1988 duties, including the presidential nominating process.

"Upon preliminary analysis of Senate Bill 10," the governor said in a veto message, "I have concluded that — notwithstanding the desirability of retaining equity between Republicans and Democrats on such important electoral issues as nominations to the State Board of Elections, County Board reapportionment committees, and the appointment of election judges, the bill may be unconstitutional on its face, and as applied."

"Important questions regarding the rights to free association and ballot access guaranteed by the First and 14th Amendments, as well as the Illinois constitutional prohibition against special legislation, are raised," Thompson said.

Since SB 10 needed a gubernatorial decision by Aug. 3 or it would have become law, Thompson said he vetoed the bill "since I am not persuaded the law is constitutional."

"If I am so persuaded over the course of the summer, I will act on Senate Bill 103 — which contains an identical provision. Or, failing constitutionality, the General Assembly may reach the same result regarding the three objectives listed above by simple amendment of those statutes," said the governor.

SB 10, which returns to the legislature, would have amended the State Election Code to allow the Solidarity candidates in the 1988 general election to file a statement of affiliation with the Board of Elections.

In addition, the state Democratic Party chairman would have had to file a statement of acceptance with the board.

The legislation also would have allowed votes cast for the Stevenson/Howlett Solidarity ticket to replace votes cast for Candidate/Fairchild for purposes of determining county board reapportionment committees, State Board of Elections appointments, and the ratio of election judges in county clerk jurisdictions.

Gulf war concerns retiring S&L officer

The rest of this year apparently will be financially stable, but the Iran-Iraq war and hostilities in the Persian Gulf could change that, Manuel "Mike" Kastin says.

If America becomes directly involved in the warfare in that oil-rich region, the nation's economy would jump, but at a very high price, he said. "That'd get it going again. No one likes it that way."

On his last day as vice president and treasurer of First Federal Savings & Loan of Edwardsville, Kastin also talked about another concern, the nation's budget deficit. He said federal officials, the administration and Congress need to focus on available income in drawing up budget proposals rather than drawing up figures and hoping to get the money they want.

"That deficit bothers me," said Kastin. "We need to base the budget on income projections and not vice versa. Until Congress and the president are of the same party we'll have these problems."

Interest rates may drop further, said Kastin, who grew up in Madison and still lives in Madison. "By the end of this year, interest rates will probably be lower. On the other side of the desk, I don't like that."

However, he said, lower interest rates stimulate economic activity. "These rates are good for us and good for the borrower." Regular passbook interest is 5 1/2 percent and money market accounts are slightly higher, he said.

Kastin turned 65 early last year and intended to retire then. But he put it off again and again. "I've been wanting to do this for a year and a half," he said.

His wife, Eleanor, had planned to retire with him, but instead has decided to continue working part time. She is the head nurse and official manager at the Medical Surgical Clinic Ltd. in Belleville.

He is particularly proud of his role in the Financial Managers Society Inc., a Chicago-based organization primarily for treasurers and controllers of savings and loans. He was a member of its Federal Taxation Committee in 1977-78 and committee vice chairman the following year, when he also was president of the southwestern Illinois chapter.

He was one of the society's 15 directors from 1980 to 1984 and one of five directors-at-large the following year; he is a member of the nominating committee this year.

In preparation for retirement, Kastin calculated his net worth, how he wanted his investments handled and how much money he expects to spend per year.

Projections over two decades look good, he said. "I'll end up with as much money as I have today. It's a pretty good sum. I'm conservative — I want to know where I stand and where I'll stand in five years."

"I always enjoyed figures and accounting," he said. He completed college in two years and was disappointed because he graduated magna cum laude. "I just missed summa cum laude by a few points."

Kastin fought in World War II and served at a Nevada air base during the Korean War.

In 1961, out of uniform again, he became an auditor for an accounting firm. "Accounting is the only kind of job I've had." But he said he got tired of endless work from December through May as companies completed annual reports. Auditing consumed his nights and weekends. "You get a little tired of it," he said.

In 1972, he was hired as assistant vice president at First Federal. Things were different then, he said.

When he started, he recalled, First Federal had passbook savings and paid about 3 percent interest. "Now we may have 20 types of accounts," he said. (Edwardsville Intelligencer)

Auditor projects deficit for sheriff's department

Members of the Madison County Board's finance committee want to ask Sheriff Bob Churchich how he plans to avoid a projected budget deficit of almost $96,000.

Churchich said the projected deficit is too high, but that there is no way to avoid some red ink.

He said he expects a combined deficit for the sheriff's department and jail of $55,000 to $60,000.

"I know there's going to be a deficit and there's no possible way I can make it up," the sheriff said. "Are we going to close the doors (of the jail) for two months? I don't think so."

County Auditor Arthur "Pete" Fields told the committee July 30 his office projects a combined deficit of $95,879 if current spending levels continue through the end of the fiscal year Nov. 30.

Committee members decided to seek a meeting with the sheriff.

Fields said that, although the sheriff's department has been aware of the budget problem for some time, "there has not been anything dramatic changed in the operations to reduce expenses."

Committee members expressed a reluctance to "bail out" the department with other county funds.

"If we bail him out, we'll have to bail everybody out," said committee member Alan Dunstan, D-Troy. Dunstan said the committee has refused in the past to provide money to other departments which were overspending their budgets.

Churchich, who took office in December, said the budget was prepared under the previous administration, but there was no way some cost increases could have been anticipated.

He said larger jail populations have resulted in far greater costs for medicine, food and other items.

He also said there have been increased costs for electricity, water and sewer services.

Churchich said his most recent electric bill from Illinois Power Co. was for $11,000, compared to $4,000 the previous month.

Churchich said the county faces a threatened lawsuit by the state because the Department of Corrections believes the jail is understaffed.

He said the department has nine fewer employees than it had nine years ago.

The combined budgets for the jail and sheriff's department total $3,589,875. Fields projects expenditures of $3,685,554.

Salaries are projected to exceed budgeted amounts by $187,899, but other costs are projected to be $92,019 below budget.

Churchich has expanded the number of high-ranking officers.

Car hits tractor-trailer at steel plant entrance

Rodney R. Phillips, 34, of St. Jacob, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident after his car was involved in an accident with a tractor-trailer truck at 9:09 p.m. Aug. 4.

Phillips had just rounded a curve, going north in the 1600 block of Madison Avenue, when his auto collided with the rear axle of the truck, driven by Mark Wertz of High Ridge, Mo. The truck was pulling out of the mill entrance of Granite City Steel. A company security guard said he saw Phillips leave the site and pull into the steel company's parking lot, where Phillips was arrested. He was released on $102 cash bail.

Machine tool exports aided

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon has hailed the Commerce Department's granting of an export trade certificate to the U.S. machine tool industry as a step that will help many Illinois firms find and develop new markets through "door-to-door" service to foreign clients.

The late Secretary Malcolm Baldrige had authorized awarding the certificate to the industry's trade association, the National Machine Tool Builders Association. Illinois' 63 members form the largest bloc of state members in the association.

The privilege is issued under the Export Trading Company Act, a bill strongly supported by Simon, that waives antitrust laws for U.S. firms wanting to cooperate on joint bidding-selling export activities, as long as such actions are aimed at export markets only.

Simon is a member of the Subcommittee on Antitrust, Monopolies and Business Rights of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He said the certificate will help boost Illinois exports, and wants it to serve as a signal to other firms in the state that they should be scouting for sales abroad.

"Three-fourths or more of our firms that can be exporting today are not," Simon said.

Another arrest was made Thursday at the company when another fire was reported to the Venice Fire Department.

Venice officials said that as many as 10 different fires were being burned at the plant site when the department responded to calls last week.

The fire department is not extinguishing fires at Belson Recycling unless they pose an immediate threat to the company's building or other businesses.

The injunction orders Belson Recycling to cease starting fires in "wood and/or insulation material, and if any fire is started" the company should immediately "completely extinguish such fire."

State payroll costs increase

Comptroller Roland W. Burris on July 20 released statistics of payroll warrants issued to state employees for work performed in May 1987.

There were 119,590 employees of all state agencies in May, a decrease of 481, or .4 percent compared to April.

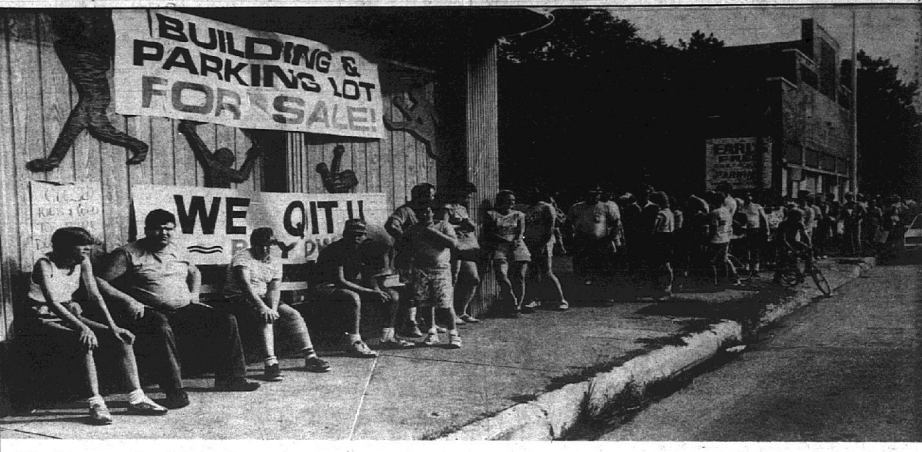

Exclusive of educational institutions, the May total was 79,777, a decrease of 129, or .2 percent, from April.

Changes by major groups were: Constitutional officers and courts up 24, or 2 percent; code departments down 184, or .3 percent; major commissions up 22, or .7 percent; and miscellaneous agencies up 9, or .4 percent.

Payrolls for all agencies in May total $231,021,891, an increase of $3,539,994, or 1.6 percent, from April. Payrolls for all agencies, except educational institutions, were $164,458,147, an increase of $1,093,818, or 7 percent.

The number of employees in May 1987 was 1,420 more than in May 1986. Educational institutions increased by 756. All other agencies increased by 664.

Total payroll costs for all state agencies increased by $16,333,485, up 7.7 percent from May 1986 to May 1987.

Going out of business

SALE CONTINUES: More than 150 people line up outside Earl's Sporting Goods, 19th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, for the first day of the store's going-out-of-business sale which is continuing.

Auto recyclers, rebuilders to meet

Auto recyclers and rebuilders of the state will gather in Pontoon Beach on Tuesday to promote a five-year study of the economic stability of the industry.

Body shops and used auto parts dealers who are licensed, and the public are invited to the meeting, to be held at Wade's Place, 4361 Reveille Drive in Pontoon Beach, near Illinois 111, north of Illinois 162.

The meeting starts at 6:30 p.m. and food will be served. There is no charge.

They are concerned with "the economic growth of Illinois and with over-regulation which have denied the firms a profitable market, resulting in a substantial loss of tax revenue to the state," according to the licensed dealers' group calling the meeting.

A salesman said, "Many jobs have been lost. Legislation calling for a probe into the reasons for the decline in economic growth by the industry is at passage stage in Springfield. We attribute the decline to unnecessary regulation imposed without full examination."

"Members of the dealers' group fear an eventual closing of many auto recycling firms, resulting in a return to the 1940s when discarded vehicles literally covered the landscape of Illinois, in ditches, back yards and corn fields because of the breakdown tial loss of tax revenue to the state," according to the licensed dealers' group calling the meeting.

"The breakdown occurred because the price of auto scrap was too low to recover the cost of transporting vehicles to scrap processors."

"Auto recycling is an essential part of any community. There is a $40 million disposal area in New York to cope with the problem at that location."

"Federal and state interest in small business retention and expansion, promising additional tax revenues and increased job opportunities, leads our group to urge persons to aid in the preparation of a business plan setting forth the causes, potential, and methods of implementation."

Since this is a popular program and the classes fill quickly, park district officials encourage persons to enroll their children Aug. 11.

Lynn McClain, pre-school instructor, and Cindy O'Neill, assistant, will be on hand for the registration and to answer questions concerning the program.

Registration slated for park district's pre-school program

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Park District will hold registration for its pre-school program at 8 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 11, at the Wilson Park office.

Classes meet twice a week at the Harold Brown Recreation Center and are for children who are 4 years old before Sept. 1. This coincides with the registration for District 9 students.

A birth certificate and proof of residency must be presented at the registration. The cost of the program, which runs from September to April, will be $40 for park district residents and $50 for non-residents. Non-residents will be placed on a waiting list.

The fee is to cover the cost of daily refreshments and must be paid in full at the time of registration.

Symphony sets youth orchestra auditions

The St. Louis Symphony Youth Orchestra, under the direction of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's newly appointed affiliate artist assistant conductor, Kirk Muspratt, will hold preliminary auditions for the 1987-88 season.

Musicians under the age of 22 interested in auditioning are encouraged to obtain an application form for preliminary auditions to be held Thursday, Aug. 27, and Friday, Aug. 28, at Powell Symphony Hall by contacting Margaret Neilson, Youth Orchestra manager, Powell Symphony Hall, 718 N. Grand Blvd., St. Louis, or calling (314) 582-2500.

Completed applications must be received by Aug. 22.

Applicants will be asked to perform a solo of their choice (no accompaniment) and scales.

Applicants will be notified by mail as to whether they have been selected for the final auditions scheduled at Powell Sept. 9, 10 and 12.

Youth Orchestra performances this season are scheduled for Fridays, Nov. 20, March 25 and May 13 at Powell Symphony Hall, in addition to a chamber concert at Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday, Jan. 17.

The Youth Orchestra was founded in 1970 by Leonard Statkin to acquaint young instrumentalists with the atmosphere of a professional orchestra, to introduce them to the environment of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and to provide them with the opportunity of investigating and performing a wide spectrum of symphonic music.

Farm credit banks cite progress by financially-stressed borrowers

More than 600 financially-troubled farmer/borrowers, with loans totaling nearly $100 million, reached formal loan restructuring agreements with the Farm Credit Banks of St. Louis during the first six months of 1987.

"These agreements have enabled borrowers to continue farming at a time when the viability of their business operation was in real jeopardy," said C.T. Fredrickson, chief executive officer of the largest farm lender in the three-state district comprising Arkansas, Illinois and Missouri.

Creating such agreements is the responsibility of a special credit unit.

The special unit was established in accord with the district banks' business plan, which was adopted in late 1986 by the banks' board of farmer/directors.

Between January and June of this year, members of that unit have worked out agreements on more than 1,900 of the most troubled loans in the district portfolio, generally those more than 90 days past due and severely under-collateralized.

"We are encouraged by the fact that agreements with more than 1,500 borrowers, holding more than $200 million in loans, have resulted in an ongoing, — in many cases, a strengthened, — lending relationship," said Fredrickson.

The 600 formal loan restructurings involve a reduction in either principal or interest as part of the agreement. In addition, nearly 800 past due loans, amounting to nearly $100 million, were brought completely current through the efforts of the special credit unit.

"These results underscore what can be achieved by the combined cooperative efforts of both borrowers and loan officers during times that are highly stressful," Fredrickson said.

He cautioned against concluding that loan restructuring alone could ever offer a complete solution to the present economic problems in agriculture.

Too often, he said, financial stress in a farmer's operations is so great that no hope of maintaining a financially viable business exists.

"Such has been the case in 400 instances, during the first six months of 1987, in which the settlement agreement resulted in a discontinued lending relationship with borrowers holding $60 million in loans.

"The difficulties presented by problem farm loans won't go away anytime soon. As of June 30, more than 5,000 borrowers of the Farm Credit Banks of St. Louis held loans worth $600 million on which payments were past due.

Renovations made at local firm

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Recent renovations at John Krekovich Realty are having a "domino effect," owner John Krekovich said.

Residents living in the area of his office, located at 2707 Madison Ave., are beginning to take more pride in their property following remodeling work at his office, Krekovich said.

"It's a time for people to take personal pride in their property," he said.

Besides improving property appearance, some people don't realize that renovations also help increase property values, Krekovich said.

The work outside Krekovich's office building included painting and landscaping, he said. Improvements inside are also planned, he said.

Many people have called Krekovich commenting about the work, he said.

"I think it's the best looking real estate office in town," he said.

Krekovich's son, Dan, a painting contractor, helped with the renovation, Krekovich said. Dan also served as contractor of the new Academy of Beauty Culture, located at 20th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, Krekovich said.

Dan was 11 years old when he did painting and landscaping work at Krekovich's office when it opened in 1972, Krekovich said.

"He's been a big helper for me," Krekovich said. "We've worked together since he was a little boy."

Krekovich has also added Harold Dee Cavins to his staff as office manager. Cavins previously worked at ERA Heritage Realty in Granite City.

Federal estimated tax installment due soon

Menees to be featured at concert in Wilson Park

GRANITE CITY — Drummer Stan Fornaszewski and his Big Band will present its last concert of the 1987 season with a special program entitled "An Evening with Charlie Menees and his Big Band Bash."

The two-hour concert will start at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Wilson Park, 27th Street and Delmar Avenue. In case of rain, the concert will be held in the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

The concert is sponsored by the Granite City Park District and American Federation of Musicians Local 717.

Menees, of KMOX radio, is returning as special guest and master of ceremonies for the concert with some of his own selections of Big Band music featuring many of his favorites.

Menees hosts KMOX's "Big Band Sounds," which is broadcast each Saturday from 10 p.m. until midnight. He is a jazz writer, teacher and longtime collector of jazz recordings, books and sheet music.

He has been a jazz record collector since 1930, when he was 14 years old. His collection today numbers more than 20,000. He is in contact with collectors throughout the world, keeping in touch with jazz developments in other countries.

Menees joined the Post-Dispatch in 1942 and persuaded its editors to let him review jazz recordings and cover jazz concerts. In 1945 he became St. Louis' first jazz radio program host, first at WTMV in East St. Louis and then at WIL. In 1972-79, he hosted programs on KWMU for a total of eight hours every Saturday night.

Menees has taught classes dealing with the Big Band Era, jazz history, and Duke Ellington's music at the University of Missouri at St. Louis and Meramec Community College.

'Crimes' features off beat trio of sisters

By Nick Pacino
Journal correspondent

Australian director Bruce Beresford proved his theory that "you can have very successful films just about relationships" with the hilarious black comedy "Crimes of the Heart." This 1986 film was adapted from the Beth Henley Pulitzer Prize-winning play about the love and acceptance that bind three quirky sisters.

Diane Keaton plays Lenny MacGrath, is the plain, insecure sister with a shrunken ovary; Jessica Lange plays Meg, the glamorous sister who yearns for a Hollywood singing career but who must settle for work in a dog food factory; and Sissy Spacek is Babe, the sister who is out on bail for the attempted murder of her husband, who caught her with a 15-year-old black youth.

The sisters' troubles can be traced in part to the rigid traditions of Southern womanhood and to a mother who hung herself along with the family cat.

There's not much plot but a lot of funny talk, with outstanding performances from everyone including Tess Harper as the nagging, nosy cousin Chick and Sam Shepard as Doc Porter. Academy Award nominations went to Spacek as Best Actress, Harper as Best Supporting Actress and Henley for Best Screenplay Adaptation. Lorimar Home Video, 105 mins., rated PG-13 for language, adult themes and brief male nudity, color, VHS/Beta, closed captioned.

"Superstar Eddie Murphy battles demonic forces to save the world in 'The Golden Child' (1986). Murphy plays a Los Angeles social worker named Chandler Jarrell—Chan to his friends—who hunts missing children. He is hand-picked by the beautiful Tibetan Koo Nang, played by Charlotte Lewis, to be The Chosen One foretold by the Nechung Oracle as 'a brave man who must remain pure if it takes 10,000 lifetimes.' Pure Chan must wave bye-bye to Southern California and travel to remotest China and beyond to save J.L. Reente, who plays The Golden Child, the religious leader of 200 million Tibetans. Reente is in the clutches of the Yellow Dragon motorcycle gang and Charles Dance, who plays Sardo: the "despicably dangerous disciple of all that is evil in the universe."

This far-fetched fantasy has some commendable special effects that cast an unfortunate spell on Murphy's usually unstoppable wackiness. Paramount Home Video, 93 mins., rated PG-13 for language and violence, color, VHS/Beta, stereo, closed captioned.

"Kultur, the performing arts video company has just released a triple treat of tapes on three of this century's leading composers. They are 'At the Haunted End of the Day ... A Profile of William Walton," "A Time There Was ... A Profile of Benjamin Britten," and "Once at a Border ... Aspects of Stravinsky."

"Aspects of Stravinsky" is a fascinating examination of a composer whose "Rite of Spring" caused a riot in the Paris theater where first was heard. Robert Craft, Stravinsky's friend and biographer, provides personal and professional insight while other contributors include George Balanchine.

Seebold racing in world championships today

AFTER 34 YEARS of racing, Bill Seebold of Granite City is still going strong. He is the winningest driver in the history of powerboat racing and a member of the Bud Light racing team. Seebold will be racing in the Bud Light World Championship Grand Prix today at George Winter Park in Fenton, Mo. Also racing will be Seebold's son, Mike.

By Jim Baer
Journal staff writer

For the 10th consecutive year, powerboats will be zooming around George Winter Park Lake, in Fenton today as the world's top racers meet for the Bud Light World Championship Grand Prix.

Nearly 75 drivers, including Granite City's Bill Seebold, will battle for a share of $2,000 in prize money in three different boat classes while the Concord Village Lions work hard to raise money for a variety of charitable endeavors.

Wayman Gault, president of the Concord Lions, remembers 15 years ago when the first Lions-sponsored races were held and fellow club members scrimped and scraped to buy an ambulance for Hedding St. Anthony's Medical Center. Nearly $750,000 has been raised since 1972 to help those in need.

What the Lions could use now are bigger crowds for the races this weekend. More spectators means more money for charity.

The high attendance mark for one year was about 40,000.

Seebold chafes when he thinks about the lack of large crowds ringing the lower portion of the Meramec River.

"I just feel people of St. Louis don't know what we have here," Seebold said.

The leader of the Bud Light Racing Team, Seebold is also a member of the Concord Lions and thinks other Lions' members could pitch in, too. Nearly all of the work for the races is done by the Concord Club.

"This is a one-of-a-kind race, and we've given so much back to the community," Seebold said. "The financial impact is really something else."

Through the event's 15 years, the crowds have been made up mainly of racing enthusiasts. The casual fans have chosen to stay away.

To make the event more appealing to the whole family, WIL Radio is hosting a mid-day country western show today. Saturday's break featured a water ski show.

Seebold said the international flavor of the races ought to turn out large crowds. He indicates nine to 10 Europeans will enter the races.

Steve deSouza, a racer from Seattle, said the St. Louis stop will always be important to him. "When I started out on the racing circuit years ago, my first big race was at the St. Louis Gran Prix," he said. "I like the fans here."

Chris Bush of St. Paul, Minn., leads the point standings to determine the overall Champ Class winner of the seven-race season, with 864 points after five races. In second is Mike Werner of Kerpen, West Germany with 703; followed by deSouza (696); Buck Thornton, Duck, N.C., (654); Seebold, (470); and Mike Seebold, (371).

The champ racers will go in excess of 120 miles per hour on the lake, jockeying for the checkered flag and $25,500 prize money.

The gun goes up at 1 p.m. Sunday for the 30-lap SST-140 final, 2 p.m. for the 30-lap Mod VP final and 3:30 p.m. for the 50-lap Champ final.

Not only are the Lions hoping to raise money for charity's war chest, they are providing entertainment for children in the community.

On Friday, 60 children from St. Louis took a spin in the boats, then were served refreshments on the shore. Provisions have been made so that home-sick, handicapped and sightless children can experience the thrill of boat racing, too.

Tickets are $10 at the gate.

Carden looks for big year on Evansville golf squad

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Chris Carden thinks his time is coming. Entering his junior year at the University of Evansville (Ind.), Carden — a 1985 graduate of Granite City High School — is ready to assume one of the top spots on the Purple Aces' golf team.

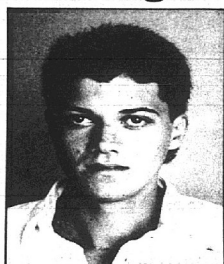

Evansville won the Midwestern College Conference title last year and had the league's top two golfers. But conference champ Tom Nelson has graduated and Carden is hoping for the No. 3 spot behind Mike Limback and Wes Noble.

"I think I can do well this year," Carden said. "I've really improved my putting to where I think it's the strongest part of my game. (GCHS golf coach Russ) Chappell won't believe that if he reads it. Putting was the weak part of my game when I was here."

But developing a good short game is necessary at the college level. "Everybody's short game is amazing," Carden said. "I haven't seen anybody who can drive the ball much farther than I can, so the difference is in the putting. You have to work it to death."

Carden averaged a 78 last year for Evansville. A Division I school, they have been able to travel to top courses like Hilton Head, S.C., and Ohio State University.

"We do well for a non-revenue sport," Carden said. "They treat us pretty well. We have a nice van and are provided with shoes, clothes and bags. And we get some recognition in the school paper. Of course, basketball is still the sport in Indiana."

Carden started golfing in the ninth grade and eventually lettered in the sport his junior and senior years at the high school. He was the team captain his senior year (1984), when he missed qualifying for state by one stroke in the sectionals at Scott Air Force Base.

"It was a rainy and windy day," he said. "I shot a 37 on the front nine and ended up with an 80. There were any number of shots I can look back on that might have hurt me."

In addition to golf, Carden was a stalwart on the Warrior hockey team for four years, leading the team in scoring his last two years. He played on the 1984 team that made it to the league finals at the Arena before losing to Desmet.

"I still get back and play some pickup games with the guys," he said. "I had some Division II and III schools that had some interest, but nothing ever came of it. And since I was 5-10, 150 pounds, I thought, I could go a little longer in golf."

If his improvement on the fairways continues, Carden — a finance major — said he wouldn't mind taking a shot at some kind of career in golf. But he's not expecting it.

"It will always be a dream," he said. "But there's lots of travel and you're playing at a different course every week. I would enjoy coming back here and being a club pro somewhere. I wouldn't mind helping to develop golf in Granite City."

"Arlington is a good course to learn on. And coach Chappell really did a good job with me. He can teach the kids and help develop them into men."

Carden heads back to school in two weeks. He would like to come to St. Louis University — another MCC school — and play there sometime.

"I've never played back in this area with the college team," he said. "I could really get pumped for that."

Jones to play at SW Oklahoma

Perry Jones, the career rebounding leader for Granite City Campus, has received a full scholarship to play basketball at Southwestern Oklahoma State in Weatherford, Okla.

Jones, a 6-4, 190-pound center, was the second leading rebounder in the Midwest Community College Athletic Conference and a second team all-regional selection despite missing half the season with a knee injury. He averaged 15 points per game. "They were looking to bring in a real good rebounder and that's what they got in Perry," said GOC coach Terry Collins. Jones is the son of Theresa Jones of St. Louis and is a graduate of Vashon High School.

Registration set for fall softball

The Granite City Park District has begun organizing the fall softball leagues.

The entry fee is $150 per team with non-resident players paying an additional $17.50 each. The entry deadline is Aug. 21 and rosters will be given out at the time the entry fee is paid. All rosters must be turned in no later than Aug. 28. League play will begin the week of Sept. 8. Four leagues will be formed. The Men's League will play on Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m. The Men's Double-Header League will play on Saturday afternoons. The Co-Rec League will play on Wednesday and Saturday. The Women's League will play on Tuesday and Thursday at Wilson Park at 6 p.m.

All leagues should end play approximately Oct. 30. For more information, call Wake Barber at the Wilson Park Office (877-3066) or stop in and pick up a flyer with all dates and times for league play.

Football equipment to be issued Aug. 13

Equipment for the Warrior football team will be issued Thursday, Aug. 13.

Head football coach Ron Yates has announced that equipment for juniors and seniors will be issued in the gym from 6 to 6:30 p.m. that evening. Sophomore equipment will be handed out from 6:30 to 7 p.m. while freshmen can get their equipment from 7 to 8 p.m.

A meeting for all players will be held in the annex gym at 5 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 16. Parents are also welcome to attend. Practice for all fall sports begins Aug. 17. The football team will hold two-day practices for freshmen and sophomores and three-days for juniors and seniors.

Yates also said he is looking for managers for the freshman, sophomore and varsity teams. He needs two at each level. Any students interested should contact Yates or attend the meeting.
